DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

1. Claims 1-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claims 1, 27 and 33, the claims recite limitations "receiving coordinate information from the contacted receiver or proxy", "receive one or more pixel positions from the wireless network receiver or proxy", "receiving coordinate information from the first means", or "receiving RF signal characteristic data", which render the claims indefinite. Does the "received coordinate information/signal characteristic data" represent the coordinate position/signal reception of the contacted receiver or proxy (sensor and/or access point) itself on the network site, the coordinate position/signal reception of the client on the network site determined and/or recorded by the contacted receiver or proxy, or the combination thereof. Correction is required. For the purpose of examination, the examiner consider, in accordance with the specification (page 9, paragraph 0124), the "received coordinate information" represents the coordinate position/signal reception of the client on the network site determined and/or recorded by the contacted receiver or proxy.

Claims 2-26 and 28-32 are rejected upon being dependent to independent claims 1, 27 and 33 that have been rejected.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1-33 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claims 1, 27 and 33, the closest prior art to the claimed subject matters is Gray (6,674,403). Gray discloses a system and a method for surveying a wireless network site, the method comprising the steps of: (a) contacting a wireless network access point therefor; (b) receiving one or more client identifiers from the contacted access point, wherein the one or more client (device) identifiers are received by the contacted access point; (c) receiving position coordinate information from the contacted access point (obtained by the contacted access point using GPS device) as well as from local database of the system; (d) correlating (linking) the received one or more client identifiers with the received coordinate information; (e) receiving RF signal characteristic data from the contacted access point, wherein the RF signal characteristic data are obtained by the contacted access point; (f) storing survey data based upon the correlation (the linking) of the received one or more client identifiers, the received coordinate information and the received RF signal characteristic data; and (g) receiving a request for the survey data from a requestor and transmitting the stored survey data to the requestor (See figs. 1-2, 5, 7 and col. 3 line 5 to col. 5 line 26, col. 6 line 27 to col. 7 line 77, col. 11 line 31 to col. 12 line 29, col. 14 line 38 to col. 15 line 19). However,

Gray does not explicitly mention that utilizing the survey data as calibration information for monitoring all wireless devices accessing the network site, wherein the calibration information is used to adjust a plurality of threshold values in monitoring the wireless network site as specified in the claims.
